The case of A. P. Crawley, of New York, suing the Norfolk and Southern Railway for $15,000 for breach of contract in not leasing the Pullman Hotel to him according to an alleged agreement, was postponed. The officers of the hotel deny that there was a contract.

INTERSTATE COMMERCE CASE

Judge Purnell Gives the Commission Fifteen Days to File Briefs.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

WILMINGTON, N. C., June 15.—Judge Thomas R. Purnell today in the United States Court heard arguments in the case of the Interstate Commerce Commission against the Clinchfield, Portsmouth and Virginia R. R. Co. and many others, including the Atlantic Coast Line, Southern Railway, Air Line and the connections to Chicago, St. Louis, Louisville and other Western points. Judge Ed. Baxter, of Nashville, Tenn., made the argument for the railroads, and H. A. Shaver, of Washington, leading counsel for the Interstate Commerce Commission, represented the other side of the case.

Three years ago the commission ruled that the railroads were in violation of laws brought by the Wilmington Tariff Association against the defendant roads, so that there would be no discrimination against Wilmington and other Virginia cities.

Judge Purnell gave the commission fifteen days to file briefs, and then the railroad side will counter-argue. The court will then render a decision.

Their captors stated to the officer on duty at the station-house that the men had offered to sell a handsome black mare, which they were driving attached to a stylish runabout at such a low figure that suspicion had been excited. It was decided to hold the men and the Washington Detective Bureau was notified. Later on officers from Hyattsville, Md., accompanied by a man who gave his name as Rhine, came to this city to inspect the men and the property. Rhine claimed the horse and buggy, and stated that Kenney was a man who had recently worked for him. He said that George Collins is the right name of the man who was arrested with Kenney. PEONAGE CASES

Special Charge Delivered to the Grand Jury by Judge Jones.

(By Associated Press.)

MONTGOMERY, Ala., June 15.—Judge Thomas Jones, in the United States Court here today, delivered a special charge to the grand jury in the case of the peonage cases, in which he took occasion to say that these cases were by no means general, but confined to two or three counties. The court instructed the jury as to its duty in the peonage cases, and dictations in all cases where the laws had been violated.

The sensational part of his charge was his declaration in response to a request of the jury for a construction of the Alabama statute known as the Beymour contract law, which permits any person to confess judgment for costs against persons who are convicted of peonage, and requiring such persons to be convicted to forfeit his liberty and be imprisoned for debt or offer to serve a master to pay his debt.

Judge Jones held that all connected with such conviction and hire of such convict, except the committing magistrate, are liable to indictment under the Federal statute.

Baby Costs Too Much

When the price paid is the mother's health and happiness. The father doesn't realize as he romps with the child what years of wifely suffering must be set against the baby's laughter. Chronic invalidism is a high price to pay for the painful joy of maternity, yet it is at such a cost that many a woman becomes a mother. Such a price is too much because it is more than nature asks. By the use of Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription maternity is made practically painless, and a quick convalescence is assured in almost every case.
